About This Game

Cuban Missile Crisis is a real-time strategy game combined with a global turn-based tactical mode, thrusting gamers into a world ravaged by the military-political confrontation between the USA and USSR in 1962.

Cuban Missile Crisis offers an alternative interpretation of the events that followed the infamous nuclear stand off between the United States and Cuba. As the stalemate collapsed, the two superpowers unleashed their nuclear arsenal on the world, levelling its metropolitan expanses and leaving scorched radioactive deserts. The cities that managed to survive the disaster realised that the most precious resources were now clean earth and water. The remaining world citizens found themselves in a war fighting for their very survival.

Cuban Missile Crisis provides an interesting mix of real-time battles and a turn-based global strategy mode, forcing players to use tactical troop movements while managing resources and armies. Conquer new resources, track new borders, create a new map of the world.

F4U "SKYRAY" BOMBER-FIGHTER

The first American seaborne supersonic interceptor. Was put into batch-production in 1954. Thanks to its high speed and time-to-climb rates, for a long time the Skyray could oppose the more modern planes and remained in the first line of USAF until late 1960ies, although it was outmatched by the Soviet MiG-21.

Specs:
Takeoff weight – 11340 kg
Speed – 1162 km/h
Armament – four 20-mm cannons, up to 1800 kg of bombs
Max altitude – 16500 m
Range – 1930 km
